

HEALTH CARE STORAGE SOLUTIONS

The health care industry requires storage systems for everything from the archiving of patient records and X-rays to the preservation of medicines. Each health care organisation has different requirements, dependent on capacity, accessibility and layout. Bruynzeel Storage Systems offers customised health care storage systems that are ideal for pharmacies, hospitals and pharmaceutical companies

MOBILE SHELVING

Want to store your medicines centrally but don't have sufficient shelf space? Bruynzeel's space-saving health care storage systems can provide a neat solution. With drawers in different heights and depths and central locking to shut the whole system in one go, our mobile systems are ideal for keeping medicines safe and secure.

Bruynzeel's mobile shelving ensures better management of the inventory and increased efficiency allowing for logical and efficient storage and cataloguing of a growing number of products.

The system can be customised to suit, for example with drawers in different heights and depths. With the central locking system, you can lock the whole system in one go.

STATIC SHELVING

The length of time a patient's record should be kept is determined by law. The length of time varies, depending on the type of record. In the UK's National Health Service, for example, the length of time a record should be retained is governed by guidelines set by the Department of Health. Often files that have been in storage for years need to be retrieved at short notice and, on occasion, accessed on a daily basis thereafter. In such situations, good quality archiving is of the utmost importance.

With the increased use of digital patient files, compact solutions such as Bruynzeel's mobile shelving systems will ensure that essential paper files take up the minimum of space.

Hospitals and GP's offices can use mobile shelving for efficient storage of medical records, allowing X-rays, mammograms and so on to be stored in a compact area. This type of storage saves space, thereby cutting estates costs. In addition to mobile storage Bruynzeel also offers a large range of static office cabinets suitable for use in the health care industry.
